

FASCINATION FIND

HAY BALER

This hay baler is several metres long, and has been fitted with a Ronaldson Tippet stationary engine. It is a model 31, manufactured by Cliff Bunting early last century, and is thought to have been made in Melbourne.

Along with many other old machines, it is being bought back to life in the agricultural machinery shed at the museum.